“ Big Momma.....I will truly miss you, words cannot describe the pain I feel knowing that you are gone. I remember all of the life lessons you taught me growing up as it was those lessons along with "aggressive" and consistent prayer that has kept me afloat. I still remember when I was five years old in 36 apartments when I caught the flue; you and momma tore up a white sheet and put some kind of cream all over my body and wrapped me in the sheet, LOL, I looked like a little black mummy but it made me better. I will miss your cooking because no one could "get down" in the kitchen like you; you always had this special touch with everything that you did. I will also miss waiting up for you when you worked at the state capital and surprising you when you walked through the door, eating lettuce and mayo sandwiches in the wee hours of the morning, and rubbing your head until you fell asleep. I remember every time I came home on leave, how you would be give me the biggest hug and kiss. Big Momma I must admit that when I lost my daddy I felt like I'd lost my heart, turns out that wasn't true because when God called you home I realized that he called home the best part of who I am. I still have every letter that you ever sent me sometimes I sit and read them and think about days past. I will miss our conversations both good and bad because it was those conversations that taught me the true meaning of being humble. I could go on and on (because I know you're listening like hmmm mmm) but I will keep it short. I've said it over and over both while you were here and since you've gone home, I love you and I will never forget about how truly blessed I was to have you in my life no one knows this better than you and I so until we meet again I will keep you close to my heart.....

Sincerely, Your Grandson
Tony

“ *To Liz,
I will continue to pray for you and your family. Know that you were the most loving and wonderful daughter to your mother and the best part is she knew because it happened while she was alive. May God's peace , which surpasseth all understanding keep you, and may the joy of the Lord strengthen you.*

Love you, Vernetta

Liz know that mother's and my prayers have already reached heaven. God will give you what you need exactly the time that you need them. I will always remember your mom's smile and when she came to the Lady's Night Out for Leah Ruth she always had that beautiful smile and kind words to say to me. I will continue to keep you and your family in prayer. Luv u much :)
