“ Johnny Jordan's contributions to the OKC African American Community are well-documented. He, along with others in his era, was a key participant in the OKC Sit-In Movement led by civil rights icon, Clara Luper. Furthermore, when KAEZ Radio Station came on the scene, his smooth, cool voice charmed radio listeners as he intermittently played soulful R&B and jazz selections. Moreover, his tall, slender, handsome, statuesque presence coupled with his charismatic smile and kind words charmed those with whom he came in contact. Undoubtedly, Johnny will most certainly be missed. Prayers and condolences are extended to the Jordan Family.

*Johnny Jordan's smooth voice rang out over the airs of KBYE in the late hours of the night in the 70s. I was always enamored that he trained on the weekends under Ben Tipton's school known as the Soul Board. When around family and friends Johnny's vibe was his 70's lingo "Right on, Give me some Dap, What's Up, Everything is Copacetic. As the Era and life changes occurred, Johnny's Platform changed and he navigated to the spot of Sunday afternoon gospel DJ. Johnny's presence on this earth and voice was an instrument of God. He never came on the air on Sunday afternoons without his acknowledgment of his mom and whose son he was. My condolences to the family and payers. Johnny was a gift from God who shared his heart and love of music with any who would listen. Rest in Peace Brother-in-law

Jordan family, you are CERTAINLY in our prayers. Praying for comfort, peace, and an extra measure of God's strength. Johnny was a classmate of my Dad, Robert Triplet, who just passed away in August. I see Mr. Jordan was a Cowboys fan too, just like my Dad. 2 Trojans who happened to be Dallas Cowboys fans, now both hanging out together with their Heavenly King. God bless you all.
