“ May God hold your family tight and guide you through this time of loss. Sister Woodberry has always been the kind of First Lady that took the time to speak to many and knew your name. When we had the Mount Olive News Paper, I had the privilege to write her life story and come to her home and conversate with her...it was an inspiration and to this day I felt like I was interviewing Michelle Obama...her story and favorites were a blessing to hear and write about...we shall meet again....and until then God speed.....

“ Sis. Patsy Woodberry, kind, quiet, elegant Woman of God called from labor to reward. May you rest in perfect peace. Crest, Staci and Kelli, you all gave your mom the highest honor. I am praying that love and peace surround each of you. It's not goodbye, but see you later! She is wherever you are -- in your heart. I pray that the beautiful memories you have of your mom, will sustain each of you now and in the days to come.

“ I was so sad to hear of your mother’s passing. Patsy and I were roommates our freshman year at the University of Central Oklahoma (formerly Central State College) in Murdaugh Hall room 337. Above everything else, she was a woman of God. You three (her daughters) were the “Apples of your Mother’s eye.” May God continue to bless and keep each of you.

“ I have known and loved Patsy since our days in the Y teens. She was the president our Junior year. She has always been a classy sophisticated lady. I have always looked up to her and admired her. You girls come with the package. You are like my daughters and I will always be here for you. God will carry you through this dark hour and many are praying your strength. Love you so much.

My sincere wishes and prayers are sent to the family. Patsy and I were classmates at both Douglass and Langston. She was a very kind, thoughtful person. She was a sweet, soft-spoken, lady-like friend and was someone you could depend on. May the family be encouraged and know that God’s grace and mercy are sufficient in your time of need. Just trust Him and He will see you through.
