“ Jojo I can't believe you're gone. Baby I've cried so many tears over and over and over again. I thank God for sending his angels down to wipe away my tears. My heart is hurting so bad and I miss you. You taught me that the best thing to hold on to in life is each other. And that love recognizes no barriers.. Joe you already know that my love for you can never fade. You touch my heart in ways I can't describe. I love you more than words can ever express all I've been doing is sitting back thinking of the last time you and I were together holding each other crying I can imagine my life without you you're the love of my life and my heart belongs to you always rest in heaven I'll meet you at the crossroads love pookie

“ My baby bro. I'm saddened to hear of your departure Jojo. We grew up together in your house on 53rd. Your mother was my mother. I know the end of the road, is never fully told...but it ends. At this pain I must wink, from this bitter cup I'll drink. Until, this all....til it ends. Rest In Power kid.
